MORGAN GRIDDERS WILL OPEN FRIDAY AGAINST LOUISA 11

Squad Light And Inexperienced but All Are Spirited

Coach Glenn Stanley will pit a Morgan County high school team with a 161-pound line and a 154-pound backfield against Louisa Friday night at Louisa to open the 1954 grid season.

Morgan County's grid team is not only lighter than last year's but it is less experienced and has lost all but eight veteran players. Graduation cut deep into the Morgan County squad of last year. Three star players were graduated in May—Albert Wingo, 235-pound all-conference tackle; Dale Dehart, all-conference back; and George Fannin, 185-pound end. Wingo is a member of the University of Kentucky's football team, and Dehart is in the armed forces.

The eight veterans back this year are Richie Stacy, halfback; Glenn Lykins, fullback; Dale Adams, center; Lee Wayne Lykins, Kenneth Hamilton and Ernest Burton, ends; Randolph Potter, guard; and L. D. Hutchinson, tackle.

Wingo is being succeeded at tackle by 175-pound Bob Hutchinson. Glenn Lykins, 175-pound halfback, has been shifted to fullback to succeed the stellar Dale Dehart, and 145-pound Kenneth Hamilton is taking George Fannin's place at end.

A total of 33 boys have reported for practice, but many of them reported late and have only five or six days of practice behind them. The rush to get the team together for the season has been a season of early practice. Thus, it will be an inexperienced team that takes the field against Louisa Friday night.

The boys, however, are in good physical condition and have fine spirit. And many of the newcomers are showing up good in practice. Among the more promising new candidates are Charles Ray Bailey, a sophomore, who promises to develop into a good backfield runner; William Holbrook of Smith Creek, another sophomore, who is good at guard; Palmer Whittey of Wingo, also a sophomore, who is being given tryouts in the backfield; and Ernest Burton from Cannel City who, although he didn't get into pre-season practice, looks good at end.

Though minus the spectacular open field running of Dale Dehart and the massive defensive work of Wingo, the Morgan County squad promises to be a fast and spirited contender this year. This may not show up in the first few games, due to lack of experience, but fans predict the team will end the season with a good record anyway.

Coach Stanley's starting lineup against Louisa will be—
Ends—Kenneth Hamilton* 145, and Lee Wayne Lykins* 140.
Tackles—Bob Hutchinson 175 and L. D. Hutchinson 185.
Guards—Joe Lykins 140 and Randolph Potter* 168.
Center—Dale Adams* 175.
Quarterback—Jerry Franklin 150.
Halfbacks—Richie Stacy 155 and Larry McKenney* 140.
Fullback—Glenn Lykins* 170.
(* Indicates veterans from last year.

Morgan County School Teachers Adopt Objectives for 1954-55

Objectives adopted by Morgan teachers at their conference on August 30 and 31 grew out of the follow-up conferences, meetings of groups of teachers and consultation with the State Service training supervisors last year.

It was thought that the most essential and important problem facing the teachers is attendance. Two other objectives discussed at the conference and summarized at the workshop during the two days were: (1) Development of techniques for improvement in the teaching of English and (2) ways in which the supervisor or helping teacher may be of best service in the improvement of instruction.

The workshop was organized with three different groups of teachers. One group was composed of the secondary teachers in the consolidated schools and another group of rural teachers. Each of the groups had a leader and a recorder.

During the meeting Dr. Luther Ambrose of Berea College, Dr. Warren Robbins, field director for Ford Foundation, and Miss Phyllis Flint, a consultant for the American Book Co., H. R. Brown, representative of the American Book Company, Supt. Carl Stewart, Walton Jones, Mrs. Melda Fawcett and Bernard E. Whittey visited the various groups and under the law regulating the state school funds, the primary factor for appropriation of the money to the schools is based on attendance. Therefore, from the financial viewpoint it is essential. Second but most important is the education of the child. No teacher can teach a child and no child can be taught who is absent from school.

In order to keep the child interested and in school the teachers feel that an attractive school room is important. This means cleanliness, painted walls and ceiling, flowers, oil, pictures, posters, maps, etc., a place for all things such as drinking cups, lunch baskets, coats, hats, etc., arrangement of desk and proper lighting. These things should be done with the help of the children and parents.

WONNIE NATIVE DIES IN WRECK

Israel J. Whitt, 34, of Walsh, Greenup county, was killed instantly Tuesday about noon when the car he was driving crashed into a bank on Ky. 7 between Pump and Wrigley six miles from West Liberty. Bill Reeves of New Boston, O., a passenger in the car, escaped with only minor bruises. Whitt, who was born at Wonnies, Magoffin county, had recently returned from Europe on a 30-day leave from the Navy. He was enroute to his base at Norfolk, Va. after visiting his home in Greenup county and his former home in Magoffin. He apparently lost control of the car and it plunged into a bank at the side of the road, throwing him from the vehicle. He was killed instantly.

He was a son of the late Earl Whitt of Wonnies and Mrs. Whitt who now lives at Walsh, and was a grandson of Tom Whitt. Funeral will be conducted at the Bear Branch school house in Magoffin county Friday at 2 p.m. with Rev. E. B. Whittey officiating, and interment will be made in the Whitt family cemetery under direction of the West Liberty Funeral Home.

Surviving are the mother, Mrs. Earl Whitt of Walsh, Ky.; two sisters, Mrs. Fern Whitt of Louisville, and Mrs. Ruie Wells of Walsh, Ky.; and four brothers, Floyd and Talmadge of Walsh, and Dean and Carson both in the armed forces.

VET IS TESTING COWS FOR BANGS

Richard Fuchs, state veterinarian, has been testing cattle for banga disease in Morgan county the past two weeks. County Agent Charlie Dixon, who arranged his schedule, reported that during the first four days 237 cows were tested. Nine of the farmers having cattle tested each had one animal with Bangs disease and one had two.

The disease is called Brucellosis Abortus. Cows that are infected with the disease frequently lose one calf and often have breeding troubles.

People may contact the disease through contact with affected animals or by drinking the milk. The disease in humans is called undulant fever. It is still practically incurable and has lasting harmful effects upon the person having the disease.

Mr. Dixon expressed regret that insufficient advance notice made it impossible to let the general public know so that they could request the services of the veterinarian.

88 WESTERN EWES ARRIVE IN MORGAN

The 88 Rambouillet ewes recently ordered by six Morgan county farmers were received Sept. 8. The farmers went to Royallton and unloaded the ewes after the train arrived at night. They were assisted by County Agent Charlie Dixon and Assistant Carl Sinclair.

The farmers plan to keep the ewes confined for about three days during which time they will feed them hay and water and treat them with penicillin to remove internal parasites.

The ewes are four and five years old with some months and udders. The farmers will save the ewe lambs from these ewes for two years. They have already received nice Hampshire rams to which their ewes will be bred. At the end of two years the old ewes will be sold and the farmers will have a nice group of Hampshire-cross ewes which will be bred to Southdown rams for fat lamb production.

The ewes cost the farmers approximately $12 each delivered. They cost $8.50 in Wyoming. Every one of the 190 ewes in the car was in excellent shape and without apparent injury.

Farmers receiving the ewes are Rex Murphy, Ezel, 15; C. A. Fugate, Grassy Creek, 25; Hager Ray, Sellars, 15; Jasper Jones, Insko, 15; Joe D. Stacy, West Liberty, 12; Robert Gullett, Matthews, 6.

SPECIAL POLIO FUND REACHES $801 IN COUNTY

The Morgan County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis already has received $801.50 from its Emergency March of Dimes drive, and a number of rural solicitors are yet to report their contributions.

The special drive was conducted simultaneously throughout the nation because of the urgent need of additional funds to care for new polio patients and to continue the care of old patients. One third of the local contributions are retained by the local chapter and two thirds go to the National Foundation for research and one-third for the gamma globulin and inoculation tests now underway.

The local chapter needs several hundred dollars to pay old bills and provide hospitalization for new cases. Earl W. Kinney, chairman, said. The local chapter has four old cases and one new case on which it is paying for the necessary hospitalization, therapy and braces.

There have been three cases of polio in Morgan county this summer.

Twelve members of the Woman's Club under the direction of Mrs. Crystal Howard, club president, conducted a Mothers' March in West Liberty last Friday night and received $302.22. The solicitors and the amounts they collected follow—Betty Wrae Hammond and Mabel W. Barber $21.57; Mrs. Howard, $16.75; Eva Elliott and Mrs. Berlyn Brown, $30.95; Mrs. Joe Haney, $85.50; Mae Wells and Mrs. Clyde Adams, $23.80; Mrs. Gene Haney, $23.80; Mrs. Charlene Spencer, $23.49; Mrs. Aleene Long and Mrs. Gertrude Nickell, $38.51.

The mothers reported fine responses from nearly every home visited. While some of the 35 solicitors in rural sections have turned in their contributions, and a considerable amount has been received in letters mailed by individuals. A full report from the rural solicitors will be made as soon as all have reported.

Also additional funds will be received from the 200 main boxes placed in business places in West Liberty and in several stores in the county. These will be gathered up this week end.

Walton Jones, treasurer of the local chapter, said he expects the emergency drive will bring in more than a thousand dollars when all funds are in.

West Liberty's "Miss Nancy" May Win State Award

Local Teacher To Be Honored Guest At Event

Mrs. Charles A. Turner of West Liberty, "Miss Nancy" to all her former pupils, and that includes nearly everyone in town—will be one of the guests of honor at Education Day exercises at the State Fair in Louisville next Monday to honor those teachers who have served the youth of the state for 40 years or more.

And Miss Nancy too will be in the running for the honor award for the teacher who has taught the greatest number of years in Kentucky.

Miss Nancy has taught 47 years in Morgan county—44 of them consecutively as the first grade teacher in the West Liberty elementary school.

This may be a record in the State. If so, she will win a coveted award, presented at the hand of former Governor and Senator A. O. Stanley at the exercises.

Miss Nancy has been invited to the special exercises with all expenses paid by the sponsoring agencies—the Fair management, the Kentucky Education Association and the State Department of Education.

MORGAN TO GET A BOOKMOBILE

Carl Stewart, superintendent of Morgan county schools, will go to Louisville next Thursday to receive the Bookmobile donated to Morgan county by the Robinson Mountain Fund administered by Judge Edward C. O'Rear.

Fifty new bookmobiles will be presented to counties at the State Fair next week. The bookmobile for Morgan was provided through a $3,000 donation by the Robinson Mountain Fund last May. Judge O'Rear who started his law career in Morgan county, is lifetime chairman of the fund, an endowment establishment by the late E. O. Robinson, a wealthy Cincinnati lumberman who died in 1934. The fund is set up to aid mountain institutions and educational efforts.

Robinson, like O'Rear, came from Eastern Kentucky and the two were close friends. Robinson put aside $200,000 as a start. At his death the fund was increased and at his widow's death it was further increased. Now, due to the wise management by Judge O'Rear, the fund has increased to $2,500,000.

The bookmobile will be operated in Morgan county through funds provided by the county board of education and the fiscal court. Needed to place it in operation is the employment of a driver-librarian and funds to buy gasoline, etc. The bookmobile is equipped with several hundred books provided by the Kentucky Bookmobile Project of which Mrs. Barry Bingham is chairman.

The Bookmobile project was organized last year to provide books for rural homes. It accepts contributions from firms and individuals with which to purchase the bookmobiles and books.

He was an employee of the Delco Corporation in Dayton but was a native of Lacy Creek, Wolfe county. His two companions, James Elkins, 35, and Troy Taulbee, 50, both of Helechawa, sustained broken ribs and other injuries.

All three were brought to the Gullett-Spencer Clinic here in West Liberty. Taulbee was in an ambulance and given emergency treatment. Later they were removed to the other hospitals. Sheriff Aaron Lykins reported their car, a 1952 Chevrolet, crashed into a vacant building opposite the Thomas Richardson store in Cannel City. He said the car hit a porch of the building and that it crushed the side of the car.

WATER AND SOIL CONSERVATION IS AIM OF PROGRAM

SCS To Initiate Projects For Aid In This County

Morgan county, through its Soil Conservation District and other cooperating agencies, plans to take full advantage of the new Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act recently enacted by Congress.

And to initiate the program in Morgan county, a meeting of all interested groups, business men, farmers and plain citizens was held in the court house in West Liberty Thursday evening. Dillard Murphy, chairman, and Berlyn Brown, soil scientist of the Morgan County Soil Conservation District, conducted the meeting.

The new Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention act is designed to promote close cooperation between federal, state and local interests in developing flood control programs on small watersheds and conservation of the cropland and soils along such watersheds.

The Red River watershed project in Wolfe county was one of 65 pilot projects started by the government last year to test the feasibility of the program.

The Grassy Creek watershed has been tentatively selected as the first project to be initiated in Morgan. Applications for initial projects must be submitted by Tuesday of next week.

The Grassy Creek watershed was selected primarily because over 50% of the farmers along the stream already are cooperators in soil conservation district work and because that stream frequently overflows and destroys crops, erodes land, etc. However, landowners along other county streams can also file applications for similar projects as soon as local interests want such a project.

Berlyn Brown of the SCS said the Grassy Creek watershed includes 33,122 acres and that 135 farmers in the area owning 17,034 acres are already cooperators in the SCS program.

Other groups invited to participate in the meeting here Thursday night to help initiate the program included R. K. Nickell, chairman of the REA; Ezra Bach, president of the Farmers' Bureau; County Judge Reed Halsey; C. K. Stacy, president of the Commercial Bank; Harold Barber, district biologist for the Fish and Wildlife Division; all local attorneys, newspaper representatives, supervisors of the soil conservation district, local landowner, manager of the telephone co-op, and all interested farmers.

Gov. Wetherby has designated the Department of Conservation as the state agency to administer the act in Kentucky. Under provisions of the act, local groups desiring to secure a project for a watershed will file their applications through this state agency.

Henry Ward, commissioner of the department, said the state feels that the Soil Conservation Districts which are organized in every county are the best qualified local organizations to initiate the projects and carry out the programs. Thus the Morgan County SCS is the sponsoring agency here, but is seeking the cooperation of all other groups.

The act will be administered by the U. S. Agricultural Department through SCS. H. K. Gayle of Lexington is head of the Kentucky SCS.

Dillard Murphy, head of SCS in Morgan county, attended a meeting in Frankfort two weeks ago to help initiate the program in Kentucky. A district meeting of SCS county workers from Morgan, Menifee, Magoffin and Johnson counties was held in West Liberty Friday to initiate the program in these counties.

The Grassy Creek project may include such work as building dams for conservation of soil and water, drainage projects such as deepening and straightening the channels of the stream; reforestation of such land as needs it for retention of rainfall, especially on headwaters of streams; woodland improvement; pasture development; control of erosion through plants and cover for wildlife, etc. It is not the intention of the program to build high level dams but only the type wanted by local landowners such as small sedimentation and water retention dams.

Local sponsors of the program envision similar projects for Elkfork, Cayle, Blackwater and possibly other streams if sufficient interest develops among landowners along these streams.

BIG PRODUCING WELL IS STRUCK ON NEWCOMBE

Des Moines Firm To Drill 7 More Wells In Region

SANDY HOOK, Ky., Sept. 7—The Elco Oil Company of Des Moines, Iowa drilled in a good-producing oil well last week on the J. A. Phillips farm two miles east of Isonville on the head of Newcombe.

The well, No. 4 on the Elco lease, was hydrofractured Thursday of last week and placed on pump Friday night. Larry Puckett, superintendent for Elco, said he thinks the well will be a 100-barrel producer.

The well was drilled through two pay sands. A strat sand 13 feet thick was struck at a depth of 1,047 feet, which was about 50 feet above the Wier sand. The well was drilled on through the Wier both pay sands were hydrofractured. It required a build-up of 4,500 pounds of pressure to hydrofracture the sands, but the result was good and the well was reported to be pumping 8 barrels of oil an hour Sunday.

Elco owns a 600-acre lease in the area. The Phillips farm is 75 acres. Drilling contractors are Dr. Adam Stacy and Donald Goe of Pineville. Dr. Stacy owns one-fourth interest in the lease.

Elco moved the drilling rig to a new location 400 feet away Monday and have commenced drilling their fifth well. Mr. Puckett said the company plans to drill seven more wells on the 600-acre lease.

Elco's first three wells on the lease are producing a total of 20 barrels a day.

The new well, about a half mile from the Lawrence county line, has created considerable interest in the area. It is believed that Elco plans to drill a sufficient number of wells so a water pressuring system can be profitably started on its lease.

KELLACEY

(By Carol Carpenter)

Sept. 6—Again I wish to give my testimony to the glory of God who again heard and answered prayer and touched my body as I submitted to surgery for cancer the third time Aug. 16. We all know the seriousness of cancer, yet with God it is only a small thing. Won't Christian friends everywhere join me in prayer that He will remove the cancer entirely, but if my suffering will bring Him any glory I will endure and bear my cross. I received so many cards, letters, money and gifts. How thankful I am for such wonderful friends. I am sure God will bless them. Those visiting me were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mann of this place, Loucinda Peyton of Jeffersonville, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peyton and children of Middletown, O., Mrs. Orel Elam of Middletown, Ohio, Ed Peyton of Ebon, John Crouch of Ebon, Mrs. Roscoe Brong, formerly of West Liberty, a Mrs. Graham, relative of Hobart Williams of West Liberty, and many workers of the Lexington churches and my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays.

The group went Saturday, but due to illness of his son and daughter-in-law, with whom he made his home, they had had his funeral Friday.

Mrs. Floyd Mays was made very happy indeed Friday when her brother, Jim Crouch of Middletown, Ohio, who is 77 years young, came to see her unexpectedly. She hadn't seen him for 14 to 19 years and didn't know him but had prayed to live to see him again.

ATTENTION! DOG OWNERS

The new dog control law in Kentucky reads as follows—

"KRS 258.135 that: 'On or before July 1, 1954 and on or before July 1 each year thereafter, the owner of any dog six months old or over shall apply to the dog warden of the county in which he resides for a license for each dog owned or kept by him. The dog owner failing to comply with this section of the law may be fined in any sum of not less than $5.00 or more than $100.00 or imprisoned not less than five nor more than 60 days or both.'

KRS 258.015 provides that: 'On or before the first day of July, 1954 and each year thereafter, every owner shall have his dog vaccinated against rabies.' This has to be done by a veterinarian. The dog owner failing to comply with this section is subject to a fine of not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00 and each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense.

Roy Tyler has been appointed Dog Warden by the Fiscal Court of Morgan county.

It is rumored that certain people believe and are advising the people that the vaccination is all that is required, which advice is in error as pointed out in KRS 258.135.

GRASSY CREEK—Homecoming At Grassy Lick

(By J. M. Gevedon)—A large crowd attended the homecoming at Grassy Lick, though not so many as usual. An able sermon was delivered by Rev. Kelly McGraw of Ashland, after which the congregation was dismissed to come and renew acquaintance which is ever a love feast on that occasion. A sumptuous dinner was prepared and spread which all seemed to heartily enjoy, but we didn't enumerate the baskets that were gathered up afterwards. Anyway, it was an enjoyable occasion.

Rev. and Mrs. McGraw of Ashland spent an hour with Aunt Jeston Gevedon Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eggleston of Middletown, O. took dinner Saturday with her Aunt Dell Gevedon. Mrs. Eggleston is the daughter of Leander Davis, once a well known teacher of Menifee county.

The writer spent a couple of days with The Cannons down Beaver last week. No, we didn't fish any—too hot to look for bait.

Charles Horton and son Glenn and Mrs. Victoria Tutt of Fairfield, Ill. visited and joined the new black top road from Sunday with Mrs. Lueta Byrd who is still here attending her mother, Aunt Jeston.

The James Gevedon family of Fairborn, O. spent the week end with the Estill Gevedons.

The Junior Elms were over Monday and we took a spin over the new black top road from The Chapel to Salem and back. Though full of acute curves it is the best grade and surface we have been over for quite awhile.

"MISS NANCY"

Miss Nancy taught two months a year for 12 years in some rural school before the West Liberty school opened its sessions. Also she completed her college work by attending summer terms and night classes. And too she had two children during her teaching years. When her first child was born, one October, she had not accepted a teaching position, but before the semester was out school officials had persuaded her to resume her position. She quit teaching three months before the school term was out when her second child was born. But when school started the next term, she was back at her post.

"Miss Nancy's" two daughters are Mrs. Lauren Mathis of Hazard and Mrs. J. Wendell Nickell of West Liberty. During her 47 years of teaching, Miss Nancy estimates she has taught more than 3,000 children. And she has helped many others by devoting her time at night to assisting them with their lessons.

She is not teaching the first grade this year, but she is still employed full time by the school board as helper at the school, mainly helping teach retarded pupils.

Honored teachers at the fair will be guests of the sponsors at a luncheon at 12 noon, CST, in the Fair Clubhouse. Wendell P. Butler, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and J. M. Dodson, KEA Executive Secretary, will make brief welcoming speeches.

Following the luncheon, a public recognition service will be held in the Fair grandstand. A. O. Stanley will make his address at this service. All Fair visitors are invited to attend this portion of the program.

MORGAN TEACHERS

Another way to keep a child interested in school is to make the school program interesting by improving methods of using the manuals, teaching aids, visual aids, handicraft and supervisory aids. Make school curriculum fit the needs of the child by studying the individual needs. After finding the needs, take the child as far as you can, using the text as a guide. On the secondary level if the needs of the child are met he can decide on his career.

Attendance—teacher, pupil and parent relationship. Friendly relationship is desirable with the teachers visiting homes, parents visiting the school, teachers taking active part in playground activities with a definite recreation program planned.

Parents should be made to feel that it is their school and the teacher is working for them. The teacher should take an active part in community activities and organize a parent-teacher association.

A community interest should be developed with good publicity and public relationship and have parents educated to the fact that good attendance means more money for the school.

The teacher should contact or see the parent when the child is absent.

A hot lunch program will help attendance.

Study Shows Morgan's Needs For School Buildings Is $2,136,400

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 6.—Kentucky's 227 county and independent school districts would have to spend $358,990,077 to meet total construction and transportation needs for their schools by September 1959 to bring them up to required standards, according to a study just completed by the State Department of Education's Bureau of Administration and Finance.

Other phases of the study, released by Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler, show a net need of $196,860,257—over and above what local school districts can raise under existing constitutional and statutory limits of indebtedness including both the two percent limit on assessed valuations, and special 50-cent levies to be retired in 20 years.

The study, part of a Kentucky Public School Facilities Survey calculated to show existing school building needs, was financed by State and Federal Funds.

The report was broken down to show the cost of new plants required, additions to existing building, remodeling or rehabilitation of old buildings and new site costs.

Copies of the report have been provided all local school superintendents. Total building needs were estimated at $350,310,077 and transportation needs of $8,680,000.

The survey represents a detailed estimate of building needs for the next few years. Total needs in Morgan county are estimated at $2,136,420.

Morehead Man Is Assistant County Agent In Morgan

Carl Sinclair of Morehead has been placed by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Kentucky as Assistant County Agent in Morgan county. Mr. Sinclair will assist Charlie Dixon with the overall extension program dealing with agriculture, youth work and better family living. The University has in mind both the training Mr. Sinclair will receive and the need and enlarged demand from the farmers for additional educational service. Morgan county is one of the largest counties in the state without the services of a regular full time Assistant agent.

Mr. Sinclair, who assumed his duties Sept. 1, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he received his BS degree in agriculture in 1947 and his masters degree in 1952.

He taught veterans for one year at Morehead after graduating in 1947 and since that time he has been vocational agricultural teacher in the Morehead High school. While at the University he was a member of the Block and Bridle Club which is a professional animal husbandry group, and Alpha Zeta Fraternity which is an honorary organization.

Mrs. Sinclair is home demonstration agent of Rowan county. Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair will continue to make their home in Morehead.

Mr. Sinclair is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Franklin in West Liberty.

WATERSHED

sloner Henry Ward, in outlining the program at Frankfort, said, "The act provides wonderful opportunities for Kentucky to advance on the land type of flood control and soil conservation program vitally necessary in the state." He added, "We have more miles of streams than any other state, and therefore we have an abundance of watersheds which fit into the picture of this program."

"The act also provides encouragement for small cities and groups of landowners interested in storing water for their use during periods of drought," Ward continued. "The federal government will pay the cost of the basic program involving flood prevention or related features. It invites other interested parties to participate by bearing the additional cost which could provide for storage of water for later use. For example, many Kentucky towns have found their present water supplies inadequate during the summer. They might well work out a plan to provide additional storage capacity in a flood control reservoir at a fraction of what it would cost them to build a reservoir alone. Groups of farmers might do the same thing to provide water for irrigation."

Information About New The Social Security Law

This newspaper will feature a series of articles which will be of special interest. For the next few weeks we will furnish information about the new social security law enacted by the 83rd Congress.

The social security law has been changed in a way that will vitally affect many people. For example benefits for those already receiving have been increased, and there are provisions to allow different methods of computation which will increase benefits for those who become eligible in the future. Many people who have not been under the law before can now become eligible. There is a provision to protect the earnings of those who are disabled. Many survivors who could not draw benefits may now be entitled to benefits.

If you would like to discuss this with the Social Security Administration, you may write or phone our district office in Ashland, Ky. A representative will be in the court house in West Liberty at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 15. Contact him if you have any particular problem.
